Opening Remarks by Mr. Shixin Chen, Vice-President of Asian Development Bank (ADB)

Moderator: Dr. Iskandar Abdullaev, Deputy Director, CAREC Institute

Discussion Points:

Speakers:

- Knowledge corridors can be visualized as an interconnected web with virtual destinations, thoughts and ideas of knowledge enablers (government), knowledge articulators (sector experts), knowledge generators (research entities), and knowledge transformers (business sector) to translate knowledge into tangible gains.
- Role of knowledge corridors to regional economic cooperation platforms are critical, considering importance and need of standardized and systematic approach in regional transport, trade, energy and tourism development.
- The central idea of knowledge corridors is to make knowledge a profitable commodity or convert ‘data to dollars’.
- Rapid advancement in information and communication technology, reduction in time and cost of access to information and data sharing, and higher connectivity and mobility facilitate knowledge exchange and partnership at a greater degree.
